BOISE, IDAHO

GED UP FOR CONCERT

The Boise Junior college band, under the direction of Mr. John Best, is shown above preparing for the annual spring concert to be presented tonight at 8:00 in the BJC music building auditorium. The band has also been making numerous tours to various schools in the Southern Idaho area.

Special Easter Devotional Features Director of Religion From BYU

Dr. West Belnap, director of religion at Brigham Young University, has been invited to give the BJC's long Easter devotional service.

The special Easter service will be held in the auditorium of the music building starting at 9:30 tomorrow morning. Dr. Belnap will speak on "Christianity and the Spirit of Easter, from Ancient to Modern Times."

The a cappella choir, under the direction of Mr. C. Griffith Bratt, will sing "Rise Up, Arise!" and "The Nations Are Now the Lord's."

Foreign Students Appear On TV

Foreign students appeared on the BJC television program on March 26. Ted, a student from South America, was the master of ceremonies.

Foreign students presented a variety of programs. A student from Mexico played a violin and sang. A student from the Philippines recited a poem. A student from the Philippines recited a poem. A student from the Philippines recited a poem.

Dr. B. West Belnap, director of religion at Brigham Young University, has been invited to give the BJC's long Easter devotional service.

Bonnell Speaks
Dan Bonnell, life science instructor, spoke to the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors at their last meeting. His subject was "Frontiers in Human Knowledge."

Dr. B. West Belnap

Dean Simpson, U of I, To See Pre-law Students

Dr. Edward S. Stinson, dean of law at the University of Idaho, will be at BJC next Thursday afternoon from 1:00 to 3:00 in room 212, to confer with pre-law students interested in continuing their education at the university.

Mr. Stinson will also visit Northwest Nazarene college and Ricks college.

Rehearsals Set For Variety Show

Rehearsals are under way for the Delta Psi Omaga variety show, scheduled to be held April 10 and 12.

Eighteen acts drawn from BJC student talent will be presented to the theme of "Hillbillies". The acts will include comedy and dancing skills.

Curtain time each night of performance will be at 8:15 p.m.

SPRING VACATION

BJC's spring vacation will officially begin at 10:00 p.m. tomorrow night, announced Dr. Axel Chaburn, dean of faculty, and classes will resume at 7:00 a.m. next Monday morning.

Council Announces Concession Profits

It was announced this week at the student body council meeting that the profits from the concessions during the basketball season amounted to $394.50.

This amount is to be divided between the various campus clubs which helped with the concessions.

It was decided that $50.00 will go into the contingency fund.

The clubs receiving the money include Valkyries, B-Cubes, Esquires, Golden Z's, Phi Sigma Sigma, and I.K.'s.

BJC Band To Present Spring Concert Tonight

The Boise Junior college band, under the direction of Mr. John Best, will present their annual spring concert tonight at 8:00 in the BJC music building auditorium.

Admission for adults is 75 cents and students are admitted with their activity cards, said Mr. Best.

Cast Announced For Spring Play

The cast has been announced for "Bad Seed" by Maxwell Anderson, the BJC spring production in dramatics, it was announced by Mr. William Shankweiler, director.

The cast chosen is: Rhoda Penmark, Joanne Madsen; Col. Kenneth Penmark, Bill Oliver; Christine Penmark, Joan Jorgensen; Monica Breedlove, Marge Sargent; Emory Wages, Alan Crooks; Leroy Bob Brock; Miss Fern, Marilyn Faulkner; Reginald Tasker, Robert Ricks; Mrs. Daigle, Karen Jensen and Kathleen Schirk; Mr. Daigle, Bardell Bailey; messenger, Ron Hendricks; Richard Bravo, Ralph McFarlane.

Rehearsals began as soon as the individual cast members were informed of their parts.

The play will be presented to the public May 9 and 10, in the BJC auditorium.

Soloists in the concert will be Betty Fulcher on the piano, playing Tchaikovsky's "Allegro Maestoso" (B-flat piano concerto); John Clark, sousaphone, playing David Bennett's "Voice of Vikings"; and Larry Lund, French horn, playing Mozart's "Rondo" (second horn concerto).

Other numbers to be presented by the band will be "Pageant" by Persichetti; Mozart's "Overture to the Marriage of Figaro"; "Finale" (first symphony) by Saint-Saen; Alford's "March Holyrood" and "Colonel Boogey March"; Morising's "French Quartet Suite" — I, Patio; II, Market Place, III, St. Louis Cathedral; IV, Congo Square.

Science Department Gets New Specimen

Dr. Donald J. Obee reports the addition of a golden eagle to BJC's growing collection of specimens, which now numbers approximately 300.

The huge bird, which has a wing span of seven feet, 10 inches, was brought in by Joe Brewer of Boise who struck the bird with his car while on a trip in southern Idaho.

The impact was so sharp the windshield was shattered and the bird ended up as a passenger in the front seat.

This is the second eagle of this species now in the possession of the science department. The first was an actor for Walt Disney, then being trained by Morey Nelson, and was killed in a training flight by a pheasant hunter.

Dr. Obee says that the science department has a constant need of such specimens and will welcome contributions from students.

BJC Art Student Wins Contest

Beverly Smith won first place in the Life Line poster contest held at BJC from February 10 to March 10, said Mrs. Donald Harrison, chairman.

Sam Calloway won second place, James Fetter won third, and Kathleen Schirk, fourth. Judges were Mrs. Charles Davidson, Mr. Seymour Faurot, and Mrs. Arthur Tetrick.

The winning posters are on display in the window of the Idaho Power company.

IN OUR OPINION . . .

Now that mid-term exams are over, everyone will relax and forget the last minute cramming they had to do every night.

College students are the same all over the country—they breeze through seven weeks of busy campus activities, having fun and ignoring daily assignments. Then come mid-terms. They sit up all night, drinking coffee and swallowing "No Doze" pills, take the test, then miss the rest of the classes that day to catch up on lost sleep.

They moan about being tired, having so much to do, studying so hard, etc. But they most likely enjoy their misery, because if it were really so bad, they wouldn't let it happen time after time. They could work a little harder each of the seven weeks previous to exams, and not have to cram every night during the last week.

Mid-term exams are not designed just to give a student a grade. These exams are more important than grades because they let the student find out what he doesn't know. They teach him what he has NOT been getting out of each class. They could be thought of as trial runs for the more difficult finals which will come up in another eight weeks.

Through these exams you learn what is expected of you. When it's time for finals, will you be sitting up reading for the first time a chapter which had been assigned three weeks before, or will you go to bed early, feeling that you are in shape to put up a good fight?

Spring vacation starts tomorrow night, so relax and have fun. But come back to class prepared to settle down for the home stretch, and you won't need to burn the midnight oil the last of May. —CKS

GUEST EDITORIAL

To that grand old intercollegiate institution, the bull session, has come a great new subject of discussion. In this era of the tranquilizer, emotional maturity has marched into step alongside sex, politics and religion as a favorite topic of college conversation.

What is maturity? How can you tell when you have achieved it? What'll it get you when you have it?

The sad truth, according to Michael Drury, in the April Reader's Digest, is that maturity cannot be gained in 10 easy lessons, like the latest dance step. Rather, it is a slow and continuous process which can slip away more easily than it is gained, and is sometimes never found at all.

Age is not necessarily a guide to maturity, the author says. In fact, youth and inexperience frequently breed the qualities that one must retain if he is to be mature: trust, curiosity, flexibility, willingness to learn.

Failing repeatedly in her efforts to ride a bicycle, one young lady said laughingly to her companion: "It takes real brains to be as dumb as I am!" This ability to poke fun at herself marked the girl as a mature person—though she was only eight.

On the other side of the ledger, author and teacher Edith Hamilton made this observation at the age of 90: "The older I grow, the less I know—but that isn't to say I trust less or have less appreciation for what is beautiful. Life is more interesting as it goes on."

How do we recognize maturity in ourselves? There are no set formulas, but there are some signposts. Ability to bounce back from staggering griefs or disappointments, doing something you've always feared, being able to part with long-held convictions—these are some of the hallmarks of maturity.

Arrival at maturity gives no assurance of a Utopian life, the author warns. Anguish, self-doubt and despair afflict even the most stable person. But recognizing that you are neither quite so wonderful nor quite so hopeless as you once believed brings the kind of inner peace that makes one a mature person. —Reader's Digest.

Mr. Potter, College Business Manager, Is One of BJC's Faculty Pioneers

Mr. Clyde Potter, who is business manager and secretary-treasurer of the college district, is being featured this week.

Mr. Potter has been with BJC since 1934. When the school was first organized he was asked to help with its financial structure.

Mr. Clyde Potter

He was then the business manager and secretary-treasurer of Boise public schools.

He started working full-time for the college in 1946, at which time he was appointed business manager of the college district.

His job includes the serious obligation of accounting for the more than $704,000 which pass through the BJC treasury every year.

In addition, he is responsible for managing BJC, Incorporated, which runs the Student Union; and Bronco Stadium, Incorporated, organized to build and operate as a separate unit.

He is involved with phases in the preparation of the budget, and supervising the college accounting. He also attends to the purchasing of equipment and supplies.

He has still another job—that of secretary of the new dormitory housing committee, which is established to finance and build a new men's dorm on campus.

Mr. Potter used to be an avid fisherman and hunter, but lately has turned to a new hobby. It is that of horticulture. His home is surrounded by beautiful flowers and shrubs which he has planted and nurtured.

When asked if he liked working at BJC, he replied, "Oh, you bet! The part of my work that I enjoy most is meeting and knowing young college people, and working with the administration and faculty."

Instructor To Serve On Nee For Nurses' League

Miss Miles, director of nursing education at BJC department, has been requested to serve on the Joint Committee of the National League for the American Association of Junior Colleges.

The interorganizational committee devoted to the study of problems common to nursing education in recent years.

Recent years nursing programs for professional registered nurses have been developing in colleges with increasing interest.

Committee helps to develop curriculum for the schools of nursing education and the needs of the profession and the public.

Committee is made up of representatives of the American Association of Junior Colleges, the American Association of Colleges of Nursing, and the American Association of Schools of Nursing.

Each year the committee meets for a period of two weeks to discuss the problems of nursing education.

Miss Miles has been working in the field of nursing education for many years.

She is a graduate of St. Luke's hospital and nurses training school, at Boise, Idaho, and received her advanced nursing education at the University of Washington.

She came to BJC when the nursing program for professional nurses was first started in 1955.

VALKYRIE PLAQUE

The Valkyrie plaque has been hung on the arch over the candy counter in the Union. It is a shield with the "V" and Valkyrie head on it. The sign is gold, black, and red, and was done by Pat Nordling, with the assistance of the BJC woodshop, and Hopfgarten Sign Co. Sonja Benson (above) is chairman.

Pupils With Cars Lose College Aid

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—Whitman college has discontinued financial aid or guaranteed grants to students who have cars on the campus.

"If a student cannot pay his bills in full he can't justly expect Whitman to give him enough financial aid to permit him the luxury of a car," Dr. Chester C. Maxey, college president, said.

Dr. Maxey said the new policy, which went into effect with the start of the second semester, is an effort to reduce the school's cost per student for education.

"After all, students of the horse-and-buggy days would not have thought themselves entitled to financial aid if they could afford to whirl around in a 'surrey with the fringe on top,'" Dr. Maxey said.

FFA, FHA Conventions

The BJC campus was the scene of the sessions of the recent conventions for both the Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America.

SO HE SAYS...

By Dave Murdock

Winter's last storms play about with the delightful mildness of approaching spring.

A child's kite slowly climbs, balks and then lazily reels in the atmosphere, several hundred yards up.

Kids begin to gather on baseball diamonds and vacant lots to loosen up pitchin' arms, or to recondition the vital split-second timing of their eyes to boost their batting averages.

Old-timers watch from the sidelines with sweet reminiscing of days when they too had the quick reflexive values of youth. A warm feeling passes through the old men as they flex stiffened muscles, and joyfully recall old days of sandlot ball.

The spikes of many flashing feet bite crunchingly at the cinder track, as muscles strain to give their all for the race. A high-strung runner's spikes grab at the cinders as he pulls to a stop, blowing and trembling, and knowing there is little time left before the first meet.

An old pro stands watching with a stop-watch in his hand, and with a slight tug in his chest, recalling days when he could speed down the track with the best of them.

A placid, easy-going attitude seems to envelop almost everyone. With the coming of spring comes white, fluffy clouds, lazily drifting across the greenery of nature, and comes a rivalry that has developed and has lasted down through the years.

This is the rivalry between baseball players and track men each spring. It is a warm friendly rivalry, but a rivalry nevertheless.

Baseball boys yell that track is the one-man sport with no team participation. The track men come back with the jibe that baseball is the sport for those who couldn't make the track squad.

Both of these sports require a great deal of skill on the part of the participants, and much practice and effort are needed.

Although the boys loudly proclaim that they would never have anything to do with the other sport, most of them secretly marvel at the skills of the others.

Although this feuding has been going on for years, no one has ever been hurt by it. It enhances the spirit of competition.

Coyotes Rap BJC 9-4 For Fourth Win

College of Idaho's Coyotes picked up their fourth win of the season Saturday afternoon as they downed the Boise Junior college Broncos 9-4 in a non-conference game at the BJC diamond. The win was also C of I's third straight over the Broncos, the Coyotes having swept a Friday doubleheader.

Ken Ackerman went the distance for the Coyotes, limiting the Broncos to only four hits. He gave up a single run in the second inning and then blanked the Broncos until the ninth when they rallied for three more tallies.

Collect 10 Hits

While Ackerman was setting the Broncos down, the Coyote batters were pounding three BJC pitchers for 10 hits. The well rounded Coyote attack broke out for six runs in the first two innings and three more in the sixth. Bud Zarbnisky was tagged for the first six runs and John Royston allowed three more before being relieved by Del Emert in the seventh.

Three singles, a double by Bob Persin and a hit batsman in the first inning started the Coyotes rolling. Don Brokop's single drove in two runs and another by Charlie Alvaro brought Ed Sloan home.

C of I didn't let up in the second inning as Ackerman and Corky Hill singled to open the inning. Ackerman scored on Persin's single and Sloan singled home Hill and Persin.

Persin, Hill and Ackerman also had a hand in the sixth inning, three run uprising. Bruce Allen singled, Ackerman walked and Hill scored them both with a single. Hill roared home when Persin's sharp grounder was mishandled by BJC third baseman Emert.

Jory Hits Twice

BJC put together a single by Doug Jory and a fielder's choice by Bob Meyer for their first tally in the second inning.

Jory opened BJC's last bid for a win in the ninth with a single and moved to second when Zarbnisky's fly was dropped. Paul Loughrey walked to load the sacks and Meyer drove in Jory and Zarbnisky with a fielder's choice. Bob Stanton sent Meyer home with a single.

Tight defensive play by the Bronco infield prevented the Coyotes from scoring any more runs. Twice Mike Kirby, Meyer and Stanton turned in double plays to halt a Coyote scoring threat.

BJC Loses Two Games To C of I As Perkins Throws No-Hit Shutout

Boise Junior college dropped two ball games last Friday to College of Idaho. The Broncos went scoreless for 14 innings and hitless for 10 innings.

In the first game, the Coyotes of Caldwell defeated Boise 4-0 behind the no-hit pitching of Bob Perkins, 6'1" senior from Council. Perkins struck out eight batters and walked six in his no not, nor run game.

Things weren't as easy as they would seem for Perkins. Time after time the Broncos would rap the ball sharply but always to a C of I player.

C of I scored once in the first inning without a hit, twice in the third on an error, two walks and Maggard's single. The Coyotes completed their scoring in the fifth on Maggard's double and a single by Heberger for one run.
